Foreword

There are places in this world, certain places, that are more dear to us than others—places which have been strongly cemented in our memories and deeply engraved upon our sentiments. It is these places to which we will fondly turn our minds, even after years of college, working, or marriage.

Where are these places, these FAMILIAR SPOTS? Through the pages of our 1959 Coronal you shall find them.

Particular spots have been the scenes of endless good times. Our othletic field, the base-ball diamond, our tennis and basketball courts, where we have witnessed countless victories and defeats — the library, familiar scenes of our last-minute assignments, and pre-test cramming — our campus lawns on sunny days, sprinkled with students eating and relaxing — the familiar classrooms filled with undercurrents of untold secrets, forbidden gum and notes, of blank test pages and dreaded report cards — combined with the club meetings, the cokes and hamburgers at the Hi-Spot, the gym crowded with decorations and dancers, and the midnight oil spent on homework, to make 1958-59 another year which will never be forgotten.

Yes, a look around our campus reveals numerous FAMILIAR SPOTS, friends, and memories. As you walk through life continue to look for the things that may reveal new friends, and other Familiar Spots that lay waiting to be explored.

Dedication

Every time we have needed someone to help decorate or clean-up for a dance, set up an assembly, or food concession, open lockers when we have last our locker keys, or dig out any long-lost decorations no matter what time of day, Mr. Tom Allen has always been there to help, full of patience.

One evening some of us were to serve coffee at the Corona Little Theater Plays. We had finished serving after the second act, but instead of doing the dishes then, we wanted to go back and watch the Third Act. Mr. Allen told us we could do the dishes when the play had ended. When the play was over, and we returned to our pile of dirty coffee cups, we couldn't find them. While we had been watching the play, Mr. Allen had done all our dishes!

This is just one example of how many little tasks Mr. Allen has performed for all of us during his years at C. H. S.

Led by president Dickie DelCastillo, the student council was unusually active. They met twice a week to take care of the many problems which arise at council meetings. The officers were elected last spring by the students and their selections proved to be outstanding in carrying out their duties.

Swan Song

Knowing that my High School years were coming to an end, I began to realize the importance of the familiar scenes about me. I wanted more than a mental picture to remember them by. I wanted something to keep with me always; so my staff and I adopted the theme "Familiar Spots

This theme will have great meaning to all of us even though we're not all Seniors because what we now call "our C.H.S," will be replaced by a new one. The things and places that are now familiar to us will grow dim.
